Terms and Conditions of Blogging

1. Privacy: MA will not disclose names or contact details of bloggers without obtaining prior consent.
2. Bloggers may wish to include their personal details on the blogs but this is done at their discretion only; MA would recommend using first names only or a nickname.
3. MA who reserves this right to monitor and edit all blog entries.
4. MA accepts no liability for information entered into a blog.
5. The blogger is entirely responsible for their entries and should agree not to use the blogs for illegal purposes, sending chain letters, mail or solicitations, re-channelling webusers to other websites or selling products or services.
6. Bloggers and responders to blogs agree not to use language that may be unlawful, harassing, libellous, abusive, invasive, threatening or harmful in any way.
7. All blog users agree to notify MA of any unauthorised use of the blogs.
8. No blog user may use this facility to advertise or make users aware of any promotions for commercial purposes.
9. MA accepts no liability for any deletions or failures to store information. However, users may notify MA of any such problem who will use their best endeavours to resolve these matters.
10. Blogs will be updated for a minimum period of three months. The blogs will continue to be viewable for one month after this, but the facilities to add or edit content or replies will be removed.
11. The content of the blogs and the comments made are the views expressed of the bloggers and do not represent Migraine Action in anyway.
12. MA may immediately terminate access to the blogs at their discretion if there is a regular misuse of the facility and non-compliance with the above terms.
13. MA reserves the right to modify these terms and conditions at any time by updating this text, and all changes will be posted within a three month period.
